SA Builder wins Australian Display Home of the Year 2012

South Australia's APS Homes has won 2012 HIA Australian Display Home of the Year Award at the residential building industry's prestigious awards ceremony held at the sunny Cairns Convention Centre.

The HIA-CSR Australian Housing Awards recognise the nation's top builders and designers. Winners are selected from a list of state-based finalists, with awards in 20 separate categories (see full list below).

This award, partnered by Stramit Building Products, recognises excellence in construction and design.

The judges described this house as visually outstanding. Its clever design also helps to create a feeling of space even though the house itself is quite narrow. Environmentally sustainable features such as double glazing and cross-flow ventilation to the main living area only add to this home's appeal.

HIA Managing Director Shane Goodwin said the HIA-CSR Australian Housing Awards are the pinnacle of housing awards and reflects the increasingly diverse and competitive Australian housing industry.

"HIA is committed to recognising the outstanding achievements of our members. This year, we have had some of the most creative and innovative ideas from HIA members. They have certainly outdone themselves and it is my pleasure to congratulate each winner for the hard work and dedication they continue to display. From sustainable initiatives to incredible workmanship, these homes will be unforgettable and we are proud to call these winners HIA members."

HIA is Australia's peak building industry body representing more than 40,000 builders, suppliers and contractors involved in residential construction.

Judged by industry professionals, the awards acknowledge the talent of builders, designers and building companies who plan and construct quality new housing, apartments, renovations, kitchens and bathrooms.
